

How to Use Your Reading in Your Essays, 2009, Jeanne Godfrey, 0230205402, 9780230205406, Palgrave Macmillan Limited, 2009

"A fundamental part of writing essays and assignments at university is using what you read in your writing. Your lecturers may ask you to be critical, original and to put what you read into your own words. You will also be told not to plagiarise. What does it mean to be critical? How can you use other people's work and still be original? How much of your essay should be about what you read? What if you don't know enough vocabulary to be able to rewrite something? How do you make it clear the difference between your own ideas and those that have come from your reading? This book answers these questions and takes you through the process of using your reading in your essays." -- Back cover.
